

PAN

PANCREA'TICK. adj. [from pancreas.] Contained in the pancreas. In man and viviparous quadrupeds, the food moistened with the saliva is first chewed, then swallowed into the stomach, and so evacuated into the intestines, where being mixed with the choler and pancreatick juice, it is further subtilized, and easily finds its way in at the streight orifices of the lacteous veins. Ray on the Creation.

The bile is so acrid, that nature has furnished the pancreatic juice to temper its bitterness. Arbutnot.

PAN'CY. n. f. [corrupted, I suppose, from panacea, panacea.] PAN'SY. n. f. A flower: a kind of violet.

The daughters of the flood have search'd the mead
For violets pale, and cropp'd the poppy's head;
Pancies to please the sight, and cassia sweet to smell. Dryd.
The real essence of gold is as impossible for us to know, as for a blind man to tell in what flower the colour of a panfy is, or is not to be found, whilst he has no idea of the colour of a panfy. Locke.

PANDECT. n. f. [pandecta, Latin.]

1. A treatise that comprehends the whole of any science.
It were to be wished, that the commons would form a pandect of their power and privileges, to be confirmed by the entire legislative authority. Swift.

2. The digest of the civil law.

PANDE'MICK. adj. [πᾶς and δῆμος.] Incident to a whole people.

Those instances bring a consumption, under the notion of a pandemick or endemick, or rather vernacular distemper to England. Harvey on Consumptions.

PAN'DER. n. f. [This word is derived from Pandarus, the pimp in the story of Troilus and Cressida; it was therefore originally written pandar, till its etymology was forgotten.] A pimp;
a male bawd; a procurer.

Let him with his cap in hand,
Like a bawd pander, hold the clamorous door
Whilst by a slave
His fairest daughter is contaminated. Shakep. Hen. V.
If thou fear to strike, and to make me certain it is done, thou art the pander to her dishonour, and equally to me disloyal. Shakep. Cymbeline.

If ever you prove false to one another, since I have taken such pains to bring you together, let all pitiful goers-between be call'd panders after my name. Shakep. Troil. and Cressida.

Camillo was his help in this, his pander,
There is a plot against my life. Shakep. Wint. Tale.

The sons of happy Punks, the pander's heir,
Are privileged

To clap the first, and rule the theatre. Dryden.

Thou hast confest'd thyself the conscious pandar
Of that pretended passion;

A single witness infamously known,
Against two persons of unquestion'd fame. Dryden.

My obedient honesty was made
The pander to thy lust and black ambition. Rowe.

To PAN'DER. v. a. [from the noun.] To pimp; to be subservient to lust or passion.

Proclaim no shame,
When the compulsive ardour gives the charge,
Since first itself as actively doth burn,
And reason panders will. Shakep. Hamlet.

PAN'DERLY. adj. [from pander.] Pimping; pimplike.

Oh you panderly rascals! there's a conspiracy against me.
Shakep. Merry Wives of Windsor.

PANDICULA'TION. n. f. [pandiculans, Lat.] The restlessness, stretching, and uneasiness that usually accompany the cold fits of an intermitting fever.

Windy spirits, for want of a due volatilization, produce in the nerves a pandiculation, or oscitation, or stupor, or cramp in the muscles. Floyer on the Humours.

PANE. n. f. [paneau, French.]

1. A square of glass.
The letters appear'd reverse thro' the pane,
But in Stella's bright eyes they were plac'd right again. Sw.

The face of Eleanor owes more to that single pane than to all the glasses she ever consulted. Pope's Letters.

2. A piece mixed in variegated works with other pieces.
Him all repute

For his device in handfoming a suit,
To judge of lace, pink, panes, print, and plait,
Of all the court to have the best conceit. Donne.

PANEGY'RICK. n. f. [panegyricus, Fr. πανηγυρικός.] An eulogy; an encomiastick piece.

The Athenians met at the sepulchres of those who were slain at Marathon, and there made panegyrics upon them.

That which is a satire to other men must be a panegyrick to your lordship. Dryden.

As he continues the exercises of these eminent virtues, he may be one of the greatest men that our age has bred; and leave materials for a panegyrick, not unworthy the pen of some future Pliny. Prior.

PAN

PANEGY'RIST. n. f. [from panegyricus; panegyriste, Fr.] One that writes praise; encomiast.

Add these few lines out of a far more ancient panegyrist in the time of Constantine the great.

PAN'EL. n. f. [panellum, law Latin; panneau, French.]

1. A square, or piece of any matter inferted between other bodies.

The chariot was all of cedar, fave that the fore end had panels of sapphires, set in borders of gold. Bacon.

Maximilian, his whole history is digested into twenty-four square panels of sculpture in bas relief. Addison's Italy.

This fellow will join you together as they join wanicot;
then one of you will prove a shrunk panel, and, like green timber, warp. Shakep. As you like it.

A bungler thus, who scarce the nail can hit,
With driving wrong will make the panel split. Swift.

He gave the panel to the maid. Prior.

2. [Panel, panellum, Lat. of the French, panne, id est, pellis or panneau, a piece or pane in English.] A schedule or roll, containing the names of such jurors, as the sheriff provides to pass upon a trial. And empannelling a jury, is nothing but the entering them into the sheriff's roll or book. Cicero.

Then twelve of such are indifferent, and are return'd upon the principal panel, or the tales, are sworn to try the same, according to evidence. Hale's Hist. of England.

PANG. n. f. [either from pain, or lang, Dutch, uneasy.]

Extreme pain; sudden paroxysm of torment.

Say, that some lady
Hath for your love as great a pang of heart,
As you have for Olivia. Shakep. Twelfth Night.

See how the pangs of death do make him grin! Shak.

Suit 'rance made Almost each pang a death. Shakep. Hen. VIII.

Earth trembl'd from her entrails, as again
In pangs; and nature gave a second groan. Mit. Par. Lgt.

Junio pitying her disastrous fate,
Sends Iris down, her pangs to mitigate. Denham.

My son advance
Still in new impudence, new ignorance.
Success let others teach, learn thou from me

Pangs without birth, and fruitless industry. Dryden.

I will give way
To all the pangs and fury of despair. Addison.

I saw the hoary traitor
Grin in the pangs of death, and bite the ground. Addison.

Ah! come not, write not, think not once of me,
Nor share one pang of all I felt for thee. Pope.

To PANG. v. a. [from the noun.] To torment cruelly.

If fortune divorce
It from the bearer; 'tis a full rance panging,
As foul and bodies parting. Shakep.

I grieve myself
To think, when thou shalt be disc'd by her,
Whom now thou tir'st on, how thy memory
Will then be pang'd by me. Shakep.

PAN'ICK. adj. [from pan, groundless fears being supposed to be sent by pan.] Violent without cause.

The sudden stir and panick fear, when chatecleer was carried away by reynard. Camden's Remains.

Which many respect to be but a panick terror, and men do fear, they justly know not what. Brown's Vulgar Errors.

Lions they are in council, lambs in fight. Dryden.

PAN'ADE. n. f. The curvet of a horse.

PAN'EL. n. f. [pannell, Dutch; panneau, French.] A kind of rustick saddle.

A pannell and wanty, pack-saddle and ped,
With line to fetch litter, and halters for hed. Tufts.

His strutting ribs on both sides show'd,
Like furrows he himself had plow'd;
For underneath the skirt of pannell,
'Twixt every two there was a channel. Hudibras.

PAN'NEL. n. f. The stomach of a hawk.

PAN'NNICLE. n. f. A plant.

The pannicle is a plant of the millet kind, differing from that, by the disposition of the flowers and seeds, which, of this, grow in a close thick spike: It is sowed in several parts of Europe, in the fields, as corn for the sustenance of the inhabitants; it is frequently used in particular places of Germany to make bread. Miller.

September is drawn with a cheerful countenance; in his left hand a handful of millet, oats, and pannicle. Penbam.

Pannick affords a food demulent nourishment. Arbut.
